

Bites Off Too Much.

There is a general feeling all along the line that Sam Randall ought to be retained. He has assumed to be the only authority on revenue questions, and tried to absolutely dictate the course and scope of all bills, relative to revenue. A New York paper suggests that an amendment to the Constitution be adopted so as to provide that all bills on revenue shall be null and void unless they originated with Sam Randall.

He made himself so obnoxious in Congress, that his constituents are the sufferers, and they are clamoring for him to come home and stay. They are just about in the position of Ormsby county during the last session. One of its representatives undertook to introduce all the bills that were introduced, and failing in that, attempted to handle all the bills any one else introduced. Balked in that scheme he then tried to beat all the bills not introduced by himself. The result was that Ormsby county was the sufferer and was obliged, through the prejudice against the acts of one man in the delegation, to have delegates from other counties introduce our bills.

The tendency of incompetent men to bite off about ten times as they can chew, is becoming a great source of annoyance in public affairs.

A Misleading Statement.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that there is no United States law which guarantees protection to unnaturalized Chinese, that the Chinese must rely on the laws of the several States for protection. At the headquarters of the Chinese legation it was stated that the Chinese would get very little protection on this Coast if they relied on State laws.

This is a misleading and false statement and made knowingly, for the purpose of exciting sympathy for the Chinese. The records of the Courts of this Coast are full of convictions of white men who have interfered with the rights of the Chinese. Any jury of white men in this State, will convict a white man for assault and battery on a Chinaman. They have done so over and over again. During the heat of the anti-Chinese excitement in this city last Summer, not a single Chinaman was interfered with. They walked the streets unmolested.

The President seems to be still having a hard time with his appointments. He has just appointed a man as Postmaster in Montana, who is a red handed murderer. His name is Carlton. He published a paper in Hollister years ago, grossly slandered a rival editor, and when the latter came to demand an explanation, shot him through the head, killing him. He was sentenced to seven years in the Penitentiary, but through some technicality the verdict was set aside, and now the man is enjoying a Federal position under the Democratic Administration.

The State Grand Lodge of Masons in New York have appointed a Committee to ascertain how it came about that a number of disreputable characters were admitted into the order. Nine men who had been instrumental in admitting the objectionable candidates were expelled from the order.

Some dirty scandal monger has spread a sensational story over the world by coupling the name of a young lady in Canada with a liaison with the Prince of Wales. It now turns out that she never met him, and did not even live in Montreal when he visited the place.

Jasper McDonald the mining sharp who sued the Post for libel got one dollar damages. We would like to phrenologist examine the heads of a jury that would give McDonald of the Jack Rabbit mine such enormous damages in a libel suit, and then hear his report.

A San Francisco drummer was arrested day before yesterday for drumming without a license. The case ought to be an interesting one, as it will settle the question as to whether the new U. S. Supreme Court decision will hold in Nevada.

Aged Ninety-three.

On March 14, Miss Irene Chapman, an aunt of Rev. Geo. R. Davis, of this city, died in Westville, Conn. the New Haven Palladium publishes the following.

In the death of Miss Irene Chapman in Westville, last Monday, March 14, at the advanced age of ninety-three years, passes away another of New Haven's oldest residents, and one who, with the exception of about nine years spent south just prior to and after the close of the war, has been a continuous resident of our city for about seventy years and a member of the First Baptist church of this city sixty-six years, having joined the church by letter from a Hartford church in the year 1822. She will be remembered by many of our oldest residents, and in her passing away a large circle of relatives and friends are called upon to mourn the loss of her who was the possessor of one of those lovable natures which has the faculty of making friends of all with whom they come in contact, and who win the respect and esteem of any society over which its charms are thrown.

The White Sage Land.

No definite step has been taken in regard to irrigating the land on the East side of the Valley. At the meeting held last Friday evening the committee reported that water could be obtained from the river, but the committee thought if artesian water could be secured, that would be the cheapest and best way to irrigate the land.

Another meeting will be held one week from this evening, at which time it is probable some definite action will be taken. Mr. Geo. Hawkins, of Carson, has a machine for sinking artesian wells, and it is understood that he will take an interest in the land and sink an experimental well for a reasonable sum. There are thousands of acres of good land on the East side of the valley, and that section is sure to be the scene of active farming operations before long. There are no less than twenty persons who intend investing in this land in the next thirty days, and there is land enough for them all, and more to spare.—Genoa Courier.

It Just Suits Us.

Frank Newlands writing to the San Francisco Bulletin says:

We are now brought face to face with the Inter-State Commerce Act, which gives every point on any of the railroads communicating with the East nearer to the point from which shipment is made an advantage over San Francisco, the extreme point. It will be readily seen that the enforcement of the Inter-State Commerce Act will not tend to its advantage. The merchant doing business in any of the small towns of our State on the line of the railroad can purchase directly from the Eastern markets to greater advantage than in San Francisco.

In Akron, Ohio, the next of Armour & Co., was boycotted by the butchers. Armour and Co. accordingly opened six butcher shops and sold meat at half price. The public who had signed agreements not to purchase Armour's meat, soon succumbed to the low price, and the regular shops were soon ruined. This goes to show that the public cannot, and never could withstand the temptation of cheap prices.
